

ABSTRACT

[0076]

A system for detecting and extracting a signal envelope is disclosed. Embodiments of the invention provide for substantially linear operation and a low DC offset that is contributed generally by mismatch of a differential resistor.